

WHERE'D YOU GO? } for orthopedic care.

In St. Louis, where you went to high school says a lot about you. So does where you went for orthopedic care. And people like Art Schulte are saying great things about St. Anthony's Medical Center. This Augustinian Academy grad knows a thing or two about good legs, knees and hips. Art danced and taught the "Imperial" – a St. Louis original – to his fellow Auggie Doggies. When it came time for surgery, he trusted his hip to St. Anthony's, which has one of the region's largest orthopedic programs and leads the St. Louis area in hip and knee replacements.

Art had the moves in high school and still does, thanks to St. Anthony's. And he was able to dance with his daughter at her wedding.

I went to St. Anthony's. Where'd you go?
